The Legacy Continues

Chantal B. Bartels '09 is already enjoying her college experience. Perhaps that is because her sister, Colette P. Bartels '05 and brother Christian E. Bartels '06 prepared her for the opportunities she would encounter at Canisius College. Chantal's siblings are the most recent members of the Bartels family to attend Canisius. Chantal's father, Edward "Kelly" Bartels '76, MD; mother, Nadine (Warren) Bartels '76, MBA '84; and grandfather, John D. Bartels '52, MD, are all alumni, in addition to many aunts and uncles. Several of Chantal's cousins are also enrolled for the fall semester including Alexander J. Bartels '06, Emily O. Bartels '08 and Jack A. Bartels '08.

This family legacy made Chantal more familiar with the college and is part of the reason she chose Canisius for her college education.

But, Chantal says, she also chose Canisius because she "wants to study bio-chemistry and Canisius was the best fit. Plus, the teachers seem more in-tune with the students than at other schools."

Nadine Bartels says she and her husband, "Kelly," encouraged their first two children to attend Canisius but Chantal made the decision on her own. Nadine is thrilled with Chantal's choice because "Canisius is such a good school. It has really proven itself through both of my children. It fit everybody's needs."

Both Colette and Christian Bartels had wonderful experiences at Canisius. Colette returned this fall to pursue her MBA, and Christian, a senior accounting major, already has job offers from two of the top accounting firms in the nation. Nadine is confident Canisius will open the same doors for Chantal.

Below is a list of students from the Class of 2009 whose parents proudly call Canisius alma mater.
