

If you were

In the summer of 1919, the first summer school or extension courses for teachers were offered at Canisius College and attracted the first women to campus. Pictured above are the extension course graduates of 1927.