Environmental Justice Through the Lens of Laudato Si

Presented by Fr. Eduardo Agosta Scarel, O. Carm., PhD

Ph.D. in Atmospheric and Oceanic Sciences from State University of Buenos Aires, and a degree in Theology from the Buenos Aires Salesian Theology Institute. Chair Professor and Researcher at the School of Astronomy and Geophysics, State University of La Plata; and Associate Researcher of CONICET.

For more info, please contact stefansm@canisius.edu

THIS EVENT IS FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC
RICHARD E. WINTER ’42 STUDENT CENTER, REGIS ROOM

4:00 PM
FEB 4 2019

Eduardo has worked on past and present climate variability and climate change, their external forcing, troposphere and stratosphere interactions, and regional climate impacts on agriculture. He is actively contributing as peer reviewer of scientific articles in prestigious scientific journals such as the International Journal of Climatology (EMS) and the Journal of Climate (AMS). He has also contributed as reviewer of the IPCC’s Special Report on Global Warming of 1.5°C (2017). From 2016, Eduardo has been named member of the National (Argentine) Academy of Politics and Moral Sciences. In recent times, he is cooperating with the Global Catholic Climate Movement (Rome) and the pontifical Dicastery for Promoting Integral Human Development.