Our Service-Immersion Program

Canisius College offers our service-immersion experiences because we are a Catholic, Jesuit institution. In our program, we intentionally place participants in direct contact with the poor and marginalized for extended exposure experiences in the hopes that participants will learn the value of building relationships across socio-economic lines, increase their awareness of the injustices in the world and connect to the ways that they are being called to build up our human family—with a special concern for those most disadvantaged. Our program revolves around the four cornerstone values of simplicity, spirituality, social justice and solidarity. We take our motivation from the following voices:

Rev. Peter-Hans Kolvenbach, S.J., the former Superior General of the Society of Jesus, in his talk to the members of a Jesuit University in the United States in 2000, implored that:

“Students, in the course of their formation, must let the gritty reality of this world into their lives, so they can learn to feel it, think about it critically, respond to its suffering and engage it constructively. They should learn to perceive, think, judge, choose and act for the rights of others, especially the disadvantaged and the oppressed.

Rev. Adolfo Nicolás, S.J., the current Superior General of the Society of Jesus, in an address to Jesuit Higher Education Institutions in Mexico City in 2010 with:

“the depth of thought and imagination in the Ignatian tradition involves a profound engagement with the real . . . the world as we encounter it; the world of the senses so vividly described in the Gospels themselves; a world of suffering and need, a broken world with many broken people in need of healing. We start there. We don’t run away from there. And then Ignatius guides us and students of Jesuit education, as he did his retreatants, to enter into the depths of that reality. Beyond what can be perceived most immediately, he leads one to see the hidden presence and action of God in what is seen, touched, smelt, felt. And that encounter with what is deepest changes the person.”

Every service-immersion experience with Campus Ministry will be on the spectrum of service to immersion—that is, direct hands-on action all the way to what is often the much harder ministry of being with, listening to and learning from the people we serve. While each one of our trips is different, the overall objective for all of them is the same. The program seeks to expose participants to people who are impoverished and marginalized in order to challenge our preconceived notions about the world and transform us into women and men who are committed to justice and to serving others.

Our Four Cornerstone Values

Simplicity – “Putting first things, recognizably, first.” – Daniel Berrigan, S.J.

Life can get complex. Sometimes we need to strip away some of that complexity in order to remember what is truly important. Focusing on simple living allows us to reconnect with what is essential—simple pleasures, connecting with the people around us, listening—which all lead to gratitude. Embracing simplicity allows us to value relationships over things; to hear the voices of our brothers and sisters, the voice of our own inner-self, and the voice of God.

Social Justice – “When I give food to the poor, they call me a saint. When I ask why the poor have no food, they call me a communist.” - Dom Helder Camara

Justice is people living in right relationships that uphold the human dignity of all. From the starting point of our common human dignity, a socially just society safeguards the rights of all people to what is required for a decent life so that everyone can reach his or her full potential. Fighting for social justice is about correcting the root causes of an injustice by asking, “Why is this happening? How can we do this differently?” As long as people in this world continue to be systematically marginalized, dismissed and thrown away, we will continue to seek social justice by fighting to change systems that dehumanize.

Solidarity - “If you have come to help me, you are wasting your time. But if you have come because your liberation is bound up with mine, then let us work together.” - Aboriginal activists group Solidarity begins with the knowledge that our humanity depends on everyone else’s humanity. We are all connected and we all have a common responsibility for one another. Solidarity is not a connection based on a hierarchy of giver and receiver, but implies togetherness in every sense of the word. It means a true relationship of sacrifice for one another that is reciprocal and necessitates commitment. It means that when we serve someone, we are also served by that person. The end result of true solidarity is that everyone feels that their humanity has been restored.

Spirituality – “If you look for me wholeheartedly, you will find me.” Jeremiah 29:13

We ask you to engage your faith and/or values in this experience. Our Jesuit tradition calls us to become “contemplatives in action”; that is, to work actively for and with the poor and to be just as active in reflecting on God’s presence in our work and our relationships. We need to spend time engaging our experiences wholeheartedly, reflecting together, allowing silence in and listening to where God or our Truth is guiding us. The end result of knowing God is seeing the world how God sees it – a world worth falling in love with, messiness and all.

Students will partner with the Catholic Charities CYO and work within a combination of five CYO programs: refugee resettlement, helping in pre-K classrooms, working in inclusive classrooms, assisting with an after-school program, and work with disabled teens and refugees. Grow Ohio Valley's Food Justice Immersion provides an alternative break experience to build social awareness around food justice. With a blend of experiential learning and solutions-oriented service, students explore food justice through the prism of poverty, disability, food subsidies, social services, food deserts, nutrition, health, urban agriculture, food industry economics, and family food insecurity. Students will explore food justice issues by meeting with healthcare professionals, farmers, soup kitchens, beekeepers, community gardeners, and others working to create a just and sustainable food system. Because we are traveling in January and out of the growing season, the focus of this food justice immersion experience will be on hunger and homelessness.

International Service-Immersion Sites

El Salvador Encounter

Dates: Wednesday, May 23 – Friday, June 1, 2018

Cost: $1,900

El Salvador Encounter is a faith-based delegation experience where participants learn from the Salvadoran people about their lives, histories and hopes for the future. A major focus of the encounter is to reflect on the meaning of working for justice rather than working for charity, understanding one's role as a global citizen and humanizing the different issues that are present in our societies. Our team will spend 10 days in El Salvador, learning directly from the Salvadorans about issues such as the impact of war, neo-liberal economics, U.S. foreign policy, migration, mining, the environment and a tradition of liberating faith. The focus of the El Salvador Encounter program is not only to develop a greater knowledge of El Salvador as a whole, but also to develop an understanding of the people and to build relationships. This immersion experience is based on learning and encounter and is designed to attract students with a range of interests who are looking for a holistic understanding of El Salvador today. Spanish, while helpful, is not necessary.

Kino Border Initiative

Dates: Saturday, May 26-Friday, June 1, 2018

Cost: $1,300

Become part of a week-long immersion into the complexity of the immigration situation on the U.S. / Mexico border. We will partner with the Kino Border Initiative (KBI), which is a collaborative, binational apostolic effort that engages in Catholic education and faith formation, socio-pastoral outreach, research, and advocacy on both sides of the border in Nogales. Strengthened by a Catholic faith that welcomes strangers, KBI supports the ministry of U.S. and Mexican communities who welcome the undocumented and care for them as brothers and sisters. This immersion trip is intended to humanize the immigration issue and to recognize its complexity, while emphasizing accompaniment of people on their journey. The majority of our time will be spent in the aid center for deported migrants in Mexico, where participants serve food and have the chance to speak with recently deported migrants. You will also have time to hike in the desert, witness the criminal prosecution of immigrants in Tucson and hear the perspective of the border patrol. There is an expectation that groups who visit KBI commit to implementing follow-up activities at their schools upon their return. Spanish language ability is an asset on this trip as you will spend a lot of time engaging recent deportees. For more information, google "Kino Border Initiative"

Mustard Seed in Jamaica

Dates: Saturday, June 2–Saturday, June 9, 2018

Cost: $1,700

Spend one week in a home for disabled children with Mustard Seed Communities (MSC), a nonprofit organization dedicated to caring for the most vulnerable populations in society. MSC began in 1978 as a home for children with disabilities on the outskirts of Kingston, Jamaica, and has expanded to Nicaragua, Dominican Republic, Zimbabwe, and Malawi. The majority of programs are dedicated to the residential care of children and adults with a range of developmental and physical disabilities who have been abandoned by their families because of the level of care they require. The vision for each apostolate is to create a loving and caring environment to aid in the physical, mental, and spiritual development of more than 600 residents worldwide. Our team will be working in a home called "Blessed Assurance" on the outskirts of Montego Bay. The day will be divided between living, loving and working with the children in this home and doing minor work projects on the grounds of Blessed Assurance. The children will range from ages 3-15 and have a variety of disabilities. Mustard Seed is a faith-based organization and so there will be a lot of time dedicated to praying and singing with the children as well. This immersion experience is designed to challenge our students to go beyond their comfort zones. Many of the children we will be working with have severe disabilities and are wheelchair bound. But don't underestimate the bonds you can build with them during this experience! For more information about Mustard Seed, see: www.mustardseed.com

Summer Camp for At-Risk Children in Poland

Tentative Dates: July 8-July 31, 2018

Cost: $2,300

Become part of a 3 week intensive immersion with at-risk children in the hills of Southern Poland. We will be partnering with "Dzielo Pomocy Dzieciom", a privately run orphanage that hosts a huge summer camp for orphans and foster children from all over Poland. There will be over 100 children at the camp from all ages, ranging from 2-14! They are broken up into small "families" which are led by both Polish and American volunteers who become "aunties" and "uncles" to these children, caring for them from the moment they wake to past bedtime. Our team will be entering into the second half of their summer camp experience. You will be divided up into families and spend most of your time caring for the children in your group. You will be eating, sleeping, hiking, playing and living with these children 24/7 in a family that might not include another English speaker. This immersion experience is our most intense one due to the difficult language barrier, tight quarters, long hours and endless energy it requires. To succeed on this trip YOU MUST LOVE KIDS! However, this is also the trip we get the most people wanting to return on, because these children will capture your heart! Get ready to fall in love!
